PRINCIPAL'S COMMENT

Harding Miller Scholarship Awardees

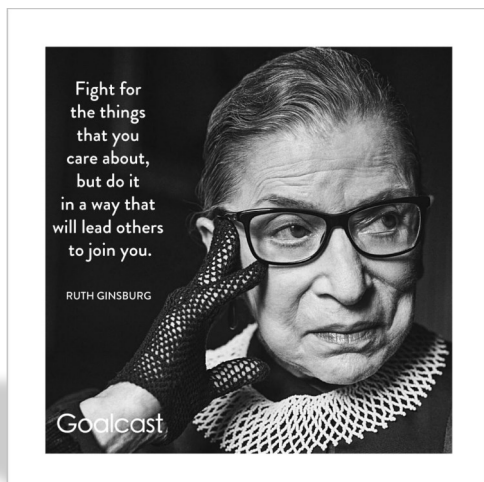

The Harding Miller Education Foundation is a registered charity in Australia, recognised as a Public Benevolent Institution advancing the cause of education. They provide the tools, resources, experiences and support to students through scholarships, to level playing field with their more financially advantaged peers. The students who are awarded this scholarship have to demonstrate high academic results and a commitment to their education.

Two of our amazing students were awarded a Harding Miller Scholarship on Tuesday night at the State Library in Brisbane. It was a wonderful night and Chelsea O'Connor and Meah Davis represented the school in an incredible manner.

The scholarship includes a high-quality laptop in the first year as well as four years of:

- ◆ Online IT support
- ◆ High-speed internet
- ◆ $2500 worth of online or face to face tutoring
- ◆ Online homework help
- ◆ Prepaid expense cards for essential school needs such as uniforms, textbooks, and school excursions
- ◆ A personal coach who supports and guides them through the four years of the program.

ONLINE PERMISSION FORMS – COMING SOON TO QPARENTS

Nanango State High School is moving towards QParents online permission forms for excursions.

The first step in this process is for our parents to join QParents. Invitations for QParents have been emailed earlier this week.

If you have not yet received your invitation link, please contact Carrie-Ann on #4171 6444.

QParents is a secure, online portal that is free for all Queensland state schools to use and provides parents with quick, easy access to their student information including:

- Student and attendance details
- Report cards and assessment planners
- Timetables and upcoming events
- Invoices and payment history
- Online Permission forms

The student information displayed in QParents is surfacing information that is already recorded and managed in OneSchool. The benefits of using QParents for schools and parents include:

- a faster, more efficient way to communicate with parents regarding student information
- a secure, convenient and automated process for parents to pay school invoices
- significant time and effort savings for both our school and parent community
- an innovative online communication tool that's free of charge for both schools and parents to use

A demonstration video for QParents is available here.

How can parents get help with QParents?

Parents can seek further information, assistance with registration, advice on how to use QParents or help with technical issues by

- Visiting the QParents help page
- Downloading the QParents user guide \(PDF, 8MB\)
- Contacting 13 QGOV (13 74 68)

GUIDANCE MATTERS

Accepting Differences

Have you ever had a hard time “fitting in” somewhere? Whether it be at school or work, in a new group of friends, or even your own family, we can all relate to feeling unaccepted at one time or another. On the other hand, many of us can think of a time that we had trouble accepting someone else.

Acceptance is the ability to see that others have a right to be their own unique persons. When you accept people for who they are, you let go of your desire to change them. You let them feel the way they want to feel, you let them be different and think differently from you. Everyone is different in one way or another. Once you understand this truth, you can stop trying to change them into the people you want them to be and start accepting them for who they are.

Allow others to be different. How boring would life be if everyone was exactly the same as everyone else in the world? If everyone looked the same, had the same personality, the same interests and the same experiences, we would lose interest in other people pretty quickly. Luckily, each of us has a unique set of qualities and characteristics that make us different. Even though we know that these differences are for the best, sometimes we feel uncomfortable with these differences. We either try to change people who are different or we avoid, or ignore them.

Being empathetic means having an open mind and accepting these unique differences. The next time you are around someone who appears to be your polar opposite, challenge yourself to get to know that person better. Find out more about him or her and you'll come out of the conversation feeling that you're not as different as perhaps you first thought. You'll feel closer to the person, and as a result, you will be that much better able to empathize with that person.

There are still eight spots available for the upcoming youth comedy workshop on Saturday, June 17.

This free workshop is a great way for young people to gain confidence, make friends, work on their comedic material with an industry expert and practice their stand-up routine to a small and supportive audience (this part is totally optional though!)

If you are a young person aged 12-24 who considers themselves to be a bit of a comedian this would be a wonderful workshop to attend.

Morning tea, lunch and afternoon tea plus transport are all provided.
